PROGRAM OF STUDENT EXCHANGE

Thanks to the cooperation agreements Universidad de Lima maintains with foreign universities, students from different parts of the world may study at our University for one or two semesters and live through an unequalled experience.

If you wish to participate in an exchange program, you must go to your university's International Relations Office, which should guide you through the process for student exchange, inform you about credit transfers, and open a file for you.

In exchange programs, each student must cover his/her own expenses, including travel and housing arrangements, meals, insurance, textbooks, study materials and personal items.

DOCUMENTS REQUIRED FOR THE EXCHANGE

- Application form.
- Notarized copy of your passport.
- Home university registration and transcripts (with grades).
- A letter expressing personal and professional motivations.
- A presentation letter written by the Exchange Coordinator.
- Health insurance.
- Two "passport size" (3.5 x 4.5 cm) color photographs on a white background.
- Résumé.

The visa and immigration

You must obtain a student visa, not a tourist visa, in order to participate in the student exchange program. This may be obtained at the Peruvian Embassy or Consulate in your home country.

Health insurance

Having a health insurance that covers accidents is mandatory.

Arriving at Lima

You are required to have sufficient command of the Spanish language. Your university must inform Universidad de Lima Study Abroad office of the date of your arrival at least two weeks before you arrive. If you prefer, a member of Universidad de Lima will pick you up from the airport and take you to your chosen housing facility.

ACADEMIC CALENDAR

Application deadlines

Exchange students must send all required documents to Universidad de Lima Study Abroad Office before the semester the student is applying to. (The first semester starts in February and the second in June).

If you need the description of any of the courses, you must contact the Study Abroad Office via email at uce_intercambio@ulima.edu.pe

LIMA AND PERU

Lima is the capital city of Peru. It was founded as Ciudad de los Reyes (City of the Kings) on January 18, 1535.

Today, it is a modern city in constant growth, that also maintains the wealth of its Historical Center.

Peru is located on the central western coast of South America facing the Pacific Ocean. The Andean Mountains run through its territory from north to south dividing the land into three distinct geographical regions: the Coast, a narrow, desert-like strip; the Mountains (or Sierra), with peaks above six thousand meters high; and the Amazon jungle, part of the great Amazon River Basin. Peru is home to 84 of the 115 biodiversity or ecological zones in the world.

ACCOMMODATIONS

Universidad de Lima does not count with student dormitories or residence halls but will provide assistance and guidance in finding adequate accommodations for exchange students who need it.

Once the student has been admitted to the Exchange Students Program, he/she must contact the Study Abroad Office in order to coordinate housing arrangements.

Students are usually housed in rooms offered by Peruvian families where they may also get meals for an added fee (breakfast and dinner). They can also be housed in student boarding houses with other exchange students.

FOREIGN STUDENTS INTEGRATION

Foreign students integration, PALS

One of the goals of Universidad de Lima for you is to assure to you a positive and pleasant experience during your stay, not only in the academic area, but overall.

This is why we created PALS, a program where Universidad de Lima students volunteer to help you adapt to the university community, to introduce you to Lima's social life, and to answer any questions you may have throughout the semester.
